HKIA CPD Seminar: House me Tender; Total precast cell systems for mass customized housing in China

Synopsis
The design research explores the use of volumetric systems in total concrete precast methods through the conception of building prototypes developed at incrementing scales. The prototypes aim to provide new models for precast housing made of prefabricated kits of standardized yet customized volumetric elements that minimize greatly construction time and manual labour on site while offering a range of varying living units that fit the needs and aspirations of prospective residents.

Speaker
Mr. Olivier Ottevaere
Olivier Ottevaere, of Belgian origin, graduated with a degree in Architecture from the Cooper Union in New York and with an MSc in adaptive architecture and computation from the Bartlett in London. He has practised in New York, Lisbon and London and has taught design studios in Denmark, the UK and for the last five years in Switzerland. In 2010, he also was a unit master at the Architectural Association. His interests reside in the conception of space in architecture driven by a hybrid approach between digital and physical design explorations. He is currently an Assistant Professor at the University of Hong Kong and continues developing design works under his initials-double(O).
