Candidate's personal statement:

When I was in my First Year of architectural studies, our late School Head told us about the essential qualities of an architect; "Aware, responsible and capable of using creative design processes to integrate context, form and technology into settings that will support and enhance people's potential". This value deeply rooted within me and it has much influenced my approach towards my career till today. It is the aesthetic of problem-solving.

We are living and working in a divisive time, particularly most so in our lifetime. There is a pressing need to bridge ideological divides to bring communities back together to a common ground. Leadership in any organization has to navigate through these tough terrains with an all-embracing quality – empathy. For us architects, it is even more so as many of us are entrenched in community building in various ways.

It is of no difference for our professional community.

I plan on bringing a perspective, through this lens utilizing our collective creativity and essential qualities that, I believe, can be more effective in the shaping of a strategic vision for the Institute, and in the "designing" of an environment that can support and enhance the potential of our profession from different generations, particularly the younger one, together in building a better, brighter Hong Kong.

My Vision

Work in close connection with the Secretariat for an efficient internal administration.

Let young voices to be heard in the Council.

Expand opportunities for small practices and individual members.

Foster Institute's proactive responses to social issues and diligent connections with the community.
