Candidate's Statement

CANDIDATE'S PERSONAL STATEMENT

These are challenging times for Hong Kong, our community, and our Institute. We need to work together to make HKIA more relevant to our members, our profession, and our society.

Here are what I will do for you:

To restore the influence, respect and reputation of the architect's role within the wider industry, empowering successful collaborative team work and enabling all sizes of practices to flourish.

To widen access and increase support for members through the Institute, providing networks, guidance and tools for new or established practitioners.

To improve enhanced and transparent communications between the Institute, members, other architecture centres here and internationally, construction professionals and policy makers.

To drive up flexible education opportunities offering relevant, affordable, and accessible routes into and through the profession. This requires guidance to increase practice mentoring and forging link between practice and academia to support students.

To empower the HKIA to become the cultural home of architectural knowledge by sharing information and encouraging research, innovation and debate throughout the industry, and improving access to our collections and library.

I have been involved in various levels of the Institute and I am willing to work with you in achieving an Institute that best represents our interests.
